ARGUMENT CLOSES TO-DAY.

Case Will Be Given to the Jury This Morning-Crowds Came in All Kinds of Conveyances.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New London, Mo., July 31 .- The crowds to-day broke all previous records. Court ed at 8 o'clock. As early as 4 o'clock vehicles loaded to the guards began to arrive. People came by rail and in buggies all day long in order to hear the addresses of the attorneys. Cullen was reared in this county and his friends naturally came from far and near to hear him.

Next to the star actors in this tragedy the ian most observed was Joshua Jarmon. the father of young Juryman H. L. Jarmon, both of Monroe City. The elder Jarmon is perhaps the largest man in Missouri. He requires a buggy all to himself, and then there is not really room enough, even without a top. He weighs nearly 500 pounds, and occupied as much room in the Courthouse to-day as three ordinary persons. He was much interested in the pro-

If the witevery detail you would have been justified in the conclusion that their testimony was drilled into them. SUFFERING AT SEA.

Story of Hardships on the Glenogle Told in a Letter.

Victoria, British Columbia, July 31.-The first details of the death of the Captain of the ship Glenogle and the reasons for the long passage of that vessel from England to the South American coast are contained in a letter which was received to-day by ex-Mayor Rediern from his eidest son, Wil-liam, who is a passenger on the vessel men-tioned. The letter was written at sea, but bosted at Tocapillo on the 26th of June, shortly after arrival of the Glenogle, Red-cern states that the captain died at sea first details of the death of the Captain of the ship Glenogie and the reasons for the shortly after arrival of the Gienogle. Red-fern states that the captain clied at sea a number of days before reaching port, and that to add to the complications and trouble the first mate and the steward also fell ill, probably with the same disease which cut short the career of the captain and which, through there being none aboard with knowledge of medicine, could not be diagnosed.

Then the water supply ran short, and pots and pans were placed on deck to catch rain, and sufficient was secured to supply the men and leave a scant supply in the tanks to take them to port. Fuel and oli also ran out, and at last so dire was the extremity that the crew were forced to cut away the spars of the ship with which to cook their meals. These privations and attendant anxieties may have had much to do with the illness and death the officer in command. of the officer in command.

CROP SPOTTED AND VERY LATE Moderate Cotton Yield Is All That

Planters Expect. New Orleans, July 31.—The Times-Demo-crat will to-morrow publish its report of the progress of the cotton crop during the month of July. The consensus of opinion is that a distinct improvement in the outlook has occurred. Texas is probably the best situated of the States, while Mississippl is when worst. The Atlantic States have sufhe worst. The Atlantic States have suf-cred somewhat from drought. Louisiana is a whole has a very good prospect, as use Arkansas. The reports from Alabama und Tennessee show a marked improvement. The situation may be summed up in the statement that the crop is very spotted and very late. At present there is no reasonable assurance of anything more han a moderate yield.

POWERS'S REPLIES WERE A SERIES OF DENIALS.

Defendant, However, Admitted That Some of the Evidence Against Him Was True—Cross-Examination Begun and Continues To-Day.

estimony of ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers as a witness in his own behalf was not concluded until 3 o'clock this afternoon, and the cross-examination, which will take up at least all of to-morrow, had proceeded only a short way when the court adjourned. To-morrow will be the third day with Powers on the stand.

Powers resumed the witness stand in his own behalf to-day and took up the testi-mony where he had left off yesterday afternoon. The witness said that on the morn-ing of the assassination he was preparing go to Louisville to make arrangements for bringing more people to Frankfort. He locked his office door, as described by wit-ness Golden. He had no recollection of anything being said concerning suspicious actions, which Golden had referred to, and was certain nothing of this sort was said. At La Grange, the party heard that Goebel had been assassinated and that the shot had been fired from the second or third story of the executive building.

Only One Key. The witness continued: "I said it was a hame and an outrage and that it would blight the chances of all of us whose offices were in contest. I expressed similar sentiments to other people that day. We went on to Louisville, but as the assassination of Mr. Goebel had upset our political plans, we of course abandoned our idea of bringing more men to Frankfort."

Witness said that the statement of Golden, that he spoke derisively when told of the shooting, was absolutely false. "I thought it my duty," he continued, "to return to Frankfort as soon as possible, and did so that afternoon. I went to the Executive building and with my key-the only one I ever had to the office-unlocked the door. I found the lock had been battered and had difficulty in withdrawing the key. I did not take the lock off and supplant it with a new one as has been stated In the defense. J. B. Mathews put on the The witness said he never heard any sort of violence talked of in any of the many onferences in which he participated, except in one held in the Commissioner of Agricul ture's office, in which Sheriff Burton of Breckinridge County talked in an incendiary manner and was reproved by witness The day after the assassination, witness said, he began an investigation to learn where the shot was fired from. The newspapers were intimating that the shooting was done from his office. He employed J. B. Mathews and Detective Griffin of Somer set to assist in the investigation.

"I made no statement to Golden that I was satisfied that shots came from n.y office, and did not tell him I was thinking of going to the Commonwealth's attorney to tell him all I knew. I did have a talk with Governor Bradley about going to see Franklin, but he advised against it and I did not go.

Why He Fled. Powers then detailed the events immediately preceding the arrest of himself and Captain Davis. He said his attorney, Judge Yost, advised him to make his way to the mountains and remain there till public excitement died out before giving himself up for trial. "The Legislature had appropriated $100. 000 for the prosecution of persons charged with the crime, and I did not believe it was possible for men to get a fair trial in Franklin County. Moreover, I did not believe the civil authorities there would protect me. 1 did not know that I could get change of venue, and these were the reasons which sugrested flight from Frankfort."

Of the $1,300 in money in his pockets at the time of his arrest, $400 of it was his own personal money and $900 of it belonged to the Republican campaign fund. The witness denied that he had ever had any one of a half dozen or more conver-sations with Wharton Golden, about which the latter had told on the stand last week, and denied that he had ever talked with him or anybody else about the killing of Goebel or any other member of the Legislature. In regard to the testimony of Robert Noakes, witness said he never had a con-versation with Noakes in regard to the smokeless powder cartridges, and saw Noakes at Frankfort, January 25, when Noakes alleged that the witness made so many damaging statements to him. The witness was kept busy denying statements made by the witnesses Noakes, Golden, Culton and Anderson.

An Important Letter. After the noon recess, Powers again re-sumed the stand. In regard to the guns in his office, which McKenzie Todd, Govrnor Taylor's private secretary, referred to in his testimony, the witness said he did not know how they came there, but understood that one or two of them were left there at the end of Governor Bradley's administration. The others were put in ere later, he supposed, by mountaineers. Witness said he wrote the letter to Pro-fessor Stevens of Barbourville, February 10, "The present desaying, in substance: noralized condition of the Democratic party is due to me more than to any other man in the State. They know I am in favor of an open declaration of war." Ex-Governor Brown, who was conducting the direct examination, asked what he meant by this expression. The prosecution objected to any explanation of the letter, on the ground that there was no ambiguity about the words used, and it should go to

Georgetown, Ky., July 31.—The direct the jury to be construed by it. The Court estimony of ex-Secretary of State Caleb sustained this contention, holding that as long as the defendant and other witnesses had given the same testimony in regard to the contents of the letter, the jury should judge as to the meaning of it. The defense made an exception

The witness admitted part of a conversation between him and Hampton of Knox County, but said Mr. Hampton had misconstrued the main point. What he said was that if Goebel should become Governor and witness held on to the office of Secretary of State, somebody might assassinate him, bu did not mean to insinuate that Goebel would have that done.

He also admitted that while in jail at Frankfort he urged Culton not to testify in the application for ball, but said that he made that recommendation for Culton's own good, and not because he knew anything that would injure witness. He denied that he had made certain statements to Miss Susie Snuffer of Williamsburg, or that he offered her any inducement to leave the State, and not testify against him.

"I did say to her," the witness continued. "that I was surprised to see her here, as she had not been summoned. She sold the told her she had to come, and that she did not have money enough to leave the State I did offer to loan her some money, and she might have used this as she saw fit. I did not recall having had such a conversation with her as she claimed, but I did not want her to testify against me, and I had rather now that she had not done so."

The witness told of a letter which he said he received from Robert Noakes in March. In the letter, he says, Noakes offered his services as a witness, saying that he would disprove the charges made against witness Wharton Golden, whose confession was being given attention by the newspaper at the time. In the letter Noakes said he heard Golden say that Powers and Finley did not want anybody except little Metho dist preachers to go on the mountaineer excursion to Frankfort, and this was offered Noakes as evidence to offset Golden's charge that Powers told him to get up 'crowd of regular mountain feudists.'

The direct examination was concluded a 2:50, at the close of which the lawyers for the defense held a short consultation. When this was finished the cross-examination was commenced, Colonel Campbell conducting it. Colonel Campbell said to the witness: "You have stated that the men you brought to Frankfort January 25 were so ber, good citizens, and did not contain any mountain feudists. Do you know Joseph Adkins, who is reputed to have killed a half dozen men?" The witness said he had no recollection of seeing Adkins in Frankfort until after the assassination. A dozen of others of questionable character were also mentioned as being on the train, but the witness only identified a few of them. This line of interrogation was still under way when th ourt adjourned until to-morrow.

writes: "Peruna as a family medicine is the best in the world. I had catarrh of the stomach for two years. Did not get better until I began the use of Peruna. I took one bottle. That did me so much good that I got another bottle and felt like a new person. I can now eat anything I want."

Mrs. O. A. Porter, Chalybeate, Miss., writes: "I was so ill last winter that I thought I was near death's door. In fact, I had been very poorly for years until about the middle of last April, when my mother came to my house and brought me a bottle of Peruna. She insisted that I should set aside all my other medicines and take nething but Peruna, which I did at once.

"I would not take the world for what Peruna has done for me. I walked to my mother's yesterday, which is about three miles."

CELERITY THWARTED DEATH. Steamboat Oiler's Quick Action

Saved a Child's Life. SCARED, BUT NOT BADLY HURT.

Chicago, July 31.—Harriet Snyder, the 5-year-old daughter of William E. Snyder of Scheme feet into the Benton Harbor, fell iffteen feet into the well of the walking beam of the steamer. City of Milwaukee, while off Chicago to-day. She lay on a mass of heated oil and the steam chest about to be crushed by the next swing of the massive beam, when she was rescued by the quickness and daring of an oiler working at the engine.

The little girl lost her balance as she attempted to peer over the railing down into the well. She fell between the moving arms of the beam, directly below Charles Barron, the engineer.

CAUGHT THE WORM. That Gnaws Under Cover.

"I have had quite an experience with the use of coffee. Without knowing why, I gradually became seriously constipated with all the disagreeable effects of this most aggravating disease. I was also billous and stomach badly out of order.

"I had no idea of the cause and kept using coffee every morning.

"One day a friend to whom I spoke of my troubles remarked that perhaps I would find the cause in the coffee cup and suggested the use of Postum Cereal Food Coffee. I was impressed with his remarks and the cause in the coffee cup and suggested the use of Postum Cereal Food Coffee. I was impressed with his remarks and made the change from coffee to Postum. The old troubles have nearly disappeared and I am one of the happiest mortals you ever saw. I have proved to my entire satisfaction that coffee was the unsuspected cause of the difficulty, and while it nearly ruined my health for a time. I have practically recovered again by the discontinuance of coffee.

"I have known a number of persons who have been driven away from Postum because it came to the table weak and characterless. It simply was not made right, and it would be the same with any other kind of drink, tea, coffee, cocoa, etc. Postum when made according to directions, is a delightful beverage.

"There are a large number of people in this surrounding country who are using Postum, and their number is increasing daily. It is a sort of a stampede. Store after store is putting in a stock of Postum that never thought of such a thing before.

"I enclose a list of twenty or thirty hames of those that I know of as users of Postum, among my immediate acquaintances. Do not use my name, please." J. M. G. Box 72, Jefferson, Wis.
